

What To Do When All Hope Is Lost

Acts 27:20

Good Weather Does Not Last

- Paul and his companions' plan worked perfectly until they set sail.
- Good weather does not last!
- All hope was gone; they were ready to give up.
- The storm lasted for fourteen days, that must have been the longest fourteen days of their lives.
- What should we do when we feel like all hope is lost?

Paul Realized That Hope Had Been Lost

- It was only when everyone believed that all hope was lost that Paul stepped up to the plate.
- Paul knew that if they were going to survive, lost hope would have to be found.
- It is only when we discover that we have lost hope that we can begin the quest to finding hope again.

Paul Realized That He Was Not Alone

- Paul was in a bad situation, but he discovered that he had allies.
- Paul knew that God was with him, but God did His work through a Roman soldier.
- We might feel all alone during times of trouble, but we are not; we are all in this together.
- Do not underestimate the power of your voice in someone's life.

Conclusion

A glowing, cracked globe of the Earth is centered in the background. The globe is blue and white, with numerous red and orange cracks running across its surface, suggesting a fractured or broken world. The background is a dark, deep blue with some lighter, hazy areas, giving it a cosmic or ethereal feel.

- The realization that Rome was God's plan gave Paul the hope that he had lost.
- Paul realized that he was not in control, God was!
- When it seems like all hope is gone, understand that God has a plan.
- God has a future and a hope for us today.
